Learning objectives:

The course helps participants to become more familiar with English as used in a technical context. The participants are introduced to the most important English vocabulary and structures used in mechanical, electrical engineering and information technology and will improve their oral and writing proficiency.

Course content:

The course is a continuation of the technical English presented in the regular classes (EFE1-EFE4). It is based on the books Oxford English for Mechanical and Electrical Engineering and Oxford English for Information Technology by E. Glendinning and includes reading and listening material, as well as writing and speaking exercises, discussions and teamwork tasks. Specific wishes of the participants will be incorporated whenever possible.
